The SU Career Services Center uses standards set by the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE), which allows for collection of placement data for graduates over the course of 180 days. The Whitman School of Management uses stricter standards as designated by its national professional associations, MBA Career Services and Employers Association (MBA CSEA) and National Undergraduate Business Symposium (NUBS). These standards, used by AACSB-accredited business schools, require closure of placement reporting within 90 days of graduation, along with specified thresholds for knowledge rates for class reporting.
